AMERICAN JOB CENTERS CAN HELP!

American Job Centers, also known as one-stop centers, provide services to job seekers around the country, including veterans, youth and laid-off workers. Nearly 2,300 AJCs nationwide help people look for open positions and answer employment-related questions. The centers offer many resources to support your search, all under one roof and free of charge.

Experienced career counselors can help you identify your interests, assess your skills and advise you on in-demand roles and potential training opportunities. AJCs also offer employment workshops, job training services, labor market and employer data, hiring events, skills testing and much more.
